GAS IN DEMAND AGAIN.

THE TROUBLE OVER STATEN ISLAND'S ELECTRIC LIGHTS NOT SETTLED.

Under the direction of General Manager J. H. Swingrion, the employes of the New-York and Staten Island Electric Company continued yesterday the work of cutting out the lights from husiness places and houses which have heretofore been lighted under contracts, where the consumers have failed or decline to sign one of the new contracts agreeing to pay by meter measurement.

An injunction restraining the company from interfering with his lights has been obtained by Walter H. Holt, the Borough Audisor, and others are preparing to follow the example.

The principal objection made by the patrons to the signing of the new contract is the provision that the consumer must supply all incandescent finishes. An experience at the Republican General Committee matter. Committee meeting Tuesday night has alarmed many consumers. At the meeting the electric lights burned brightly for a few minutes, and then every lamp burned out. New lamps were secured, but these burned out also, and candles had to be procured before the meeting could proceed. Lamps have been burning out quickly all over the islant, and it is estimated that the expense for lamps will far exceed the proposed reduction in the price of electric current.

Electricians say that this burning-out of the Electricians say that this burning-out of the lamps is due to the fact that the voltage is not properly controlled at the power station, and that the life of lamps is entirely in control of those who oberate the power plant. It is said that the voltage is maintained at a particularly high point just at this time, for the reason that experts are in the borough representing Controller Coler, and investigating the complaints which have been made by citizens and through the police of the poor street-lighting service.

The office of the kas company in Stapleton, which has a minopoly of that method of illumination on the island, was besieged yesterday with applicants for gas connections.
